Dear fellow students,

There is a serious phenomenon in our school that many students crowd in the school store to buy snacks after each class and some students even eat snacks in class.

Eating snacks is a bad habit as well as a waste of money. Additionally, with most snacks high in fat and sugar, eating snacks improperly may lead to fatness and illness. What's worse, some students throw the wrappers everywhere, which pollutes our campus.

It's high time that we acted as responsible young adults, developing good eating habits with regular three meals a day and, above all, a balanced diet.

Let's say no to snacks.

Students' Union

Worried about my health, I tried many different kinds of diets but nothing worked. I came to believe that I could do nothing about my weight.
2. Breakfast is more important than any other meal in a day. For one thing, after a night's sleep, most of the energy stored in the human body has been consumed. Breakfast serves the purpose of filling up our energy, thus making us energetic again. For another, in the course of a day, morning is the period of time in which we work with most efficiency. Without breakfast, the efficiency would be lost. Finally, the constant lack of breakfast can contribute to stomach troubles.
